

Stardance

While the world goes crazy
And everyone takes a pro-war stance
Come on now, baby
Let's lie on our backs and watch the stars dance

Tonight they seem to shine superbright
Cuz down here darkness has intensified
Has spread like a virus and swallowed every light
Bred black fires that false idols are dying to ignite
Tonight the stars shine bright
For those of us who ain't lost their 3rd eyesight
But many turned blind and let hate be their guide
Now they're wandering, stumbling left and right
Fumbling in the dark, anxiously
Wannabe shooting stars shooting aimlessly
Shamelessly pretending to be the center of the galaxy
Their black hole fallacies will fail miserably
One twinkling little star defeats their obscure strategies

While the world goes crazy
And everyone takes a pro-war stance
Come on now, baby
Let's lie on our backs and watch the stars dance

And watch our hands reach out for the skies
Like one, two, three, four, five, six, seven
Till you and I and the u-n-i-verse will unify
Riding the space-time curve, that's heaven
Infinitely small but one with the All One
Just a blue note in a cosmic song
That goes on and on like my man's stretched airhorn
Swinging to the melody that the planets hum
In heavy rotation, broadcast live
From the brightest two-star constellation
We shed luminous radiation even if we'll be dead
By the time it reaches destination
